Cadent Resources, Inc. Brings You DemandCaster®

Proprietary Software and Service Helps Companies Compete Successfully, Reduce Working Capital Needs, and Free Up Cash Flow to Grow

CHICAGO, IL, FEBRUARY, 2009 – Cadent Resources, Inc., provider of inventory and capacity optimization solutions, developed a software and service solution in 2008 that is used to maximize return on working capital by assuring the right amount of inventory and capacity are available at the right time. With manufacturing growth declining, finding your optimal inventory with DemandCaster® is a simple, money-saving solution.

DemandCaster® is designed to address your planning challenges in a cost effective and minimally intrusive manner. It is an outsourced response management service that couples web based analytics with a repeatable process of expert analysis and collaboration to improve inventory turns and capacity utilization for better service and cash flow.

DemandCaster® does not replace your current ERP engine. DemandCaster® integrates with your existing ERP system and/or customer planning systems to analyze and forecast demand for the products that are sold to end users. It dynamically performs a 360 degree analysis of every SKU for the characteristics that drive inventory, the volatility of customer demand and reliability of inventory replenishment.

DemandCaster® is available now at www.cadentresources.com and is targeted at small to middle-market distribution and manufacturing firms that wish to optimize their inventory and capacity performance with the robust and actionable business intelligence of DemandCaster®. DemandCaster® helps you compete successfully by reducing your working capital needs and freeing up the cash flow to grow. Though no one can predict the future, with DemandCaster® software and service from Cadent Resources, users are able to increase their chances in managing the unpredictability of our economic storm.

The 5 step DemandCaster® process to generate cash and profit is easy to implement because it is software as a service and is managed by one of their Demand Management experts.

1. Data extraction files are securely prepared and uploaded from your operating system to DemandCaster®.
2. An initial raw analysis is performed to establish replenishment settings and service levels.
3. Further iterations are performed and within the first few weeks of analysis, inventory reduction opportunities are identified and free cash flow commences.
4. A review frequency is established to continually improve the process to keep inventory objectives in line with changing conditions.
5. When applicable, additional improvement opportunities are identified across your supply chain for further savings.

Within 4 months, X-L Engineering Corp brought their number of stock outs and shortages down from 30-40% to just 3%. “Cadent Resources has done an excellent job! DemandCaster® has worked exactly how it was said it would. Cadent Resources worked smoothly with our employees, and the visibility and ease of tracking jobs has been felt in all areas of the company. With DemandCaster® we can monitor trends, declines, and spikes in demand and address production proactively allowing for higher levels of efficiency,” said Paul L. Prikos, Vice President of X-L Engineering Corp.

Dean Snyder, Controller for American Metalcraft, Inc. said, “Cadent Resources has been the best investment AMC has made in the 3 years I have been here” after reducing their inventory by 11% in 2008 with the use of DemandCaster®.

“You know, it is nice to hear that all your efforts make a difference. The greatest thing for me is that we pay for ourselves and in essence give them even more money in return. Good or bad, I do not like being in situations where we are unable to create value, and I will walk away if we are unable to make a measurable difference. That is ultimately what I want Cadent Resources, Inc. to be known for.” said Ara Surenian, Founder and President of Cadent Resources, Inc.

About Cadent Resources, Inc.
